

International Relations: Australia and the Indo-Pacific

Microcredentials

Course code: INDOM101

This course offers an introduction to Australia's strategic role in the Indo-Pacific while giving you a taste of university-level learning.

Students will gain an understanding of the Indo-Pacific region and Australia's strategic relationships with Asia. Content covering topics include regionalism, geopolitics, economics, security and relations with key partners including USA, China, India, Korea, Japan, Indonesia and Vietnam.

Duration : 8 weeks during school term time

Audience : students aged 16–18 studying at High School level

Delivery : fully online with 2 optional online tutorials

Earn : certificate of completion and 2 points towards a UWA unit

Cost : $450 +GST with discounts for UWA Broadway and partner schools

Assessed : via content review, case study answers and multiple choice quiz

Case Study One
Pandas as Diplomats

Case Study Two
The Paris Climate Agreement

Case Study Three
When tariffs are used to break the rules

Case Study Four
Foreign investment as a form of international relations

Case Study Five
Why governments care about TikTok

Case Study Six
Australia's international sporting connections

Case Study Seven
How supply chains impact online shopping

Case Study Eight
Language learning in international relationships

" I've engaged in this course because I find international politics — especially in times of great turbulence like today — extremely relevant to my life. I hope to learn more about Australia's immediate relations as an Indo-Pacific country and gain insight into how these relationships shape our everyday lives.""

YEAR 11 HIGH SCHOOL PARTICIPANT

Course dates and sign up form: perthusasia.edu.au/education/indom101/

This microcredential is delivered by the Perth USAsia Centre in partnership with The University of Western Australia

